

Berlin to Host the Women SAILING Champions League Final 2024 at Berliner Yacht-Club

Berlin, Germany – The prestigious Berliner Yacht-Club is set to host the fifth edition of the Women’s SAILING Champions League (Women SCL) Finale from May 31st until 2nd of June, 2024. This highly anticipated event will see 25 teams from 13 nations compete for the coveted title, highlighting the growing popularity and international enthusiasm for women's sailing.

Among the notable participants is a team from Australia, which secured its place by winning the Women Asia Pacific Champions League. Their participation underscores the global reach and competitive spirit of the event, drawing together top talent from across the globe.

The weather forecast predicts winds up to 10 knots, with rain and cloudy conditions expected. Despite the challenging forecast, the Wannsee is known for its unpredictability, promising tight and fair races that will keep spectators and competitors alike on the edge of their seats.

The Berliner Yacht-Club has prepared an exciting program to complement the racing action. On Friday, there will be a lecture by renowned British sailor Annie Lush, and on Saturday evening, a party with DJ for the sailors will offer a chance to relax and celebrate.

The Women SCL Final 2024 in Berlin is poised to be a thrilling and memorable event, showcasing the best in women’s sailing and fostering international camaraderie and competition.

For further information about the SAILING Champions League 2024 and upcoming events, please visit our official website at www.sailing-championsleague.com.

Pictures:

<https://konzeptwerft.smugmug.com/SAILINGChampionsLeague/2024/01-Women-Qualifier-Berlin-31-May-02-June-/Press/Press-release>

Contact:

a.lukosch@sailing-championsleague.com